c) The retrieved data may be passed on to business partners and companies (such as workshops) for consideration and implementation of concrete projects. The customer will ensure that the business partners of the company do not to use the data for other purposes. Otherwise, the retrieved data may not be provided to third parties, distributed, or communicated to the public.
d) The translation, adaptation, arrangement and other alteration of the retrieved data requires the consent of the database provider. The compilations of summaries (abstracts), which replace the notice of the original data, are prohibited.
e) The distribution of this data to the direct or indirect competitor of the database provider.

The customer may not remove any copyright, trademark and other reservations of rights in the data.

A violation of these Terms of Use or attempt to circumvent the barriers to entry, constitute a copyright violation and entitle the database operator to collect damages.

6. Special Provisions for Information Brokers
Information brokers (equals customer in this contract) that run the database research for clients, may pass on the research results mentioned under paragraph 5 to the respective client, if the client has agreed, in written form, to abide by the terms of use of the customer addressed by the database provider according to paragraph 5, and the customer offers the database provider a formal obligation agreed to by the client upon request.

7. Technical Specifications
The customer is responsible for supplying the connection to the database provider's servers and for all other technical outfits. The database provider has the right, if necessary also during working hours, to conduct maintenance on the server and the database. This may result in disturbances concerning data recall for which the database provider assumes no liability.

8. Customer Obligations
The customer ensures that unauthorized third parties do not gain access to copies made by him or gain unauthorized access to the contents of the database. The database provider reserves the right to investigate suspected abuse or breach of contract, take appropriate actions, and upon justified suspicion, reserves the right to freeze the customer's access to the database.
The customer may only use the database appropriately. In particular the customer should: use the database appropriately especially not in contradiction to the terms of use (paragraph 5); be responsible for protecting the basics of data privacy; abide by official and technical regulations, as well as netiquette (internet-specific system of rules); immediately announce indications of misuse of the database to the database provider.
The customer is obligated to inform the database provider about noticeable damages or defects of the database.

9. Jurisdiction and Applicable Law
All legal relations arising from this contract are subject to the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany excluding the UN sales law. Court of jurisdiction is Augsburg (Germany).

I hereby declare myself to conclude the Database Order Contract. In particular, I hereby authorize consent to share the use of data in the context of paragraph 2 of this contract. I hereby also certify that I own a valid CAD software license and confirm to use the data solely for the above described purpose(s).
